

IF YOU WANT A HOME BUILD OF BRICK

To the person who is anticipating the building of a home, his mind is probably set that it must be beautiful, but does he think of what it shall be in a few years after. That should be as important as the arrangement.

BRICK will do this very thing—look as nice in later years as it does when constructed and will maintain the same selling qualities, should you desire to sell.

A palm beach suit, a straw hat and a raincoat was the unusual combination seen on Kansas avenue last evening when the clouds were hovering threateningly over the town. Another man with a mackinaw drove down the street in an auto.

The Tully-McFarland drug company, the Rexall store, had a three-day sale on Rexall products, beginning Friday and running through Monday. The event was advertised almost exclusively in the State Journal. Many articles were sold out on the first day, and everything was gone at the close of the last day. The sale was a success and demonstrated the power of advertising.

Fred Gentry, colored, was arraigned in the court of Topeka this morning on a charge of assault with intent to kill. He was released, pending preliminary hearing, on $1,000 bond. He was charged with having threatened his wife and mother and father with death. He was arrested by the police Sunday night but was given freedom on bond. Undersheriff Hugh Larimer rearrested him last night on the new charge.

Between August 1, 1914, and August 1, 1915, there was approximately $25,000 turned in to the county treasurer in receipts and fees from the various offices, according to a report in the county clerk's office. But it is almost impossible to estimate whether or not the county gains much through the working of the new law. Many of the county officials are inclined to believe that the county is making a little money out of the fees that are turned in from the various offices.

Miss Ruth Robinson, a Topeka woman, who has been seen here several times in stock plays, passed through Topeka this afternoon on her way to New York city, where she expects to get a Metropolitan engagement. For the last several months Miss Robinson has been at the head of the Car-Rob Stock company, which has been playing at Fort Worth, Tex. Before going to Texas the company played Topeka engagements and the work of Miss Robinson attracted much attention.

E. Lee Heiderich, consulting engineer for the Electric theater company, who is in Topeka looking after the work of remodeling the Orpheum building, was here in 1899. "Topeka was no large town then," said Mr. Heiderich, "and I never expected the town to grow much. This was not a very dry town then, either. Saloons were running almost wide open, and gambling houses were operated here. Topeka is a beautiful city, with her wide streets and clean looking buildings."

The horseshoe tournament staged by members of the city playgrounds Monday afternoon was won by a team from the Washington school playgrounds with a score of 25 points. Cheney was second with a score of 21, while Polk and East side teams were tied with 7 points each. The tournament was held on the Polk grounds. Tonight another festival will be held on the East side grounds. Music will be furnished by the Santa Fe apprentice band. Miss Lulu McKee and Ralph Hope will be in charge.

Novelty Review.
The Barker family is more in evidence at the Novelty theater than ever before and as a result "In Bamboo Land," the offering for the week goes with a versatility is the middle name for Bobby Barker, William Barker and Miss Zaida Barker. They do their work in a clever manner every performance. Monday afternoon at the opening performance "Bamboo Land" a fantasy of the shipwrecked sailor and American heiress type, the specialty of foolishness presented by a Barker was the hit of the show. The ensemble numbers all were well done. In addition to the tab three reels of pictures are shown, which gives the patrons of the theater a big dime's worth of amusement.

Hit Review.
In their farewell production, "The House of Bondage," a spectacle of "bad women" plays, the Bessie Dainty Players touched the pinnacle of thrills for the Topeka audience Monday night. Although the play is an expurgated version of Reginald Wright Kauffman's book there are still enough tense scenes left to put the average person on the edge of his seat. Some delicate situations are handled successfully by the company without getting too deep into the real nastiness that is to be inferred from the scene. The phrase, "The best guardian of a man's virtue and a woman's worst enemy, is an empty pocketbook," probably explains the tenor of the play better than anything else. Miss Dainty handles the role of the girl who has been led into a life of shame in New York with a repression that gives her work the finish that it has always shown. Miss Ida Courtney, as "Rose Legere," the keeper of a so-called modish shop, runs Miss Dainty a close race for honors. The others members of the company show to good advantage and do their work with such precision that the "heart thrilling" scenes really "get over" in great shape, so much so that when the hero asked "Where did he go" (referring to the villain), one person in the audience cried out "Out the window." This was enough to disrupt the show for a time while the audience and players alike had a good hearty laugh. "The House of Bondage" will be continued throughout the week with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. Saturday night the company will leave for Sioux City, Ia., where they will open their fall season. E. W. W.
